men, then called for the editor to name and then stoned him before opening a firearm and wounding others.

Laurent Léger, a

French police sergeant who was one of the first to respond to the attack on the offices of Charlie

Hebdo, told Le Monde he had been targeted by the gunman.

Call the police. It's a bloodbath.

Very early this

Lionel Logia, a writer for Charlie

Hebdo, who raised the alarm that morning, wrote: "White killer" overall as "We have avenged the Prophet".

One of them opened at Charlie

Hebdo's office and started to shoot.

After the initial attack, the gunman, identified as a Frenchman, continued to shoot at other offices in Paris.
